

Equipment ABC

Tavole Freestyle

Light tables and court, extremely manageable, the best to be used to in the jumps and in the rotations. They have the raised again extremities and you round off for facilitating the two-way use. They are relatively wide to allow the positioning of the the feet with next angles to the transversal axle.

Alpine

Long tables and holds, have a point a little raised again and a flat and square tail. The characteristics of this type of equipment are the stability to high speeds and the estate on hard and compact snows.

Attacks

The attack fixes the boot to the table. The choice is determined by the personal technical demands and by the type of table. They mainly uses two types of attacks.

Hard

Structure formed by a base in material metallic/plastic endowed with anterior and back anchorages (bows) for the boot, usually with lever of anterior closing or anchorage step-in (automatic hookup); the extremities of the hull of the boot are held back by the bows. This typology of attack him proper for the alpine tables.

Soft

Structure formed by a base in material metallic/plastic endowed with hi-back (spoiler) in the back part with strap (bands) stuffed to stop the ankle and the point of the foot (from 1 to 3). This attack is characterized by a greater side and frontal mobility and it suits him for the tables freestyle.

Boots

Also the boots dress again a fundamental importance in this sport.

The combination boot-attack-snowboard it has to favor the attainment of three purposes:

protection of the foot; maintenance of a correct position on the snowboard; constitution of the ideal interface among shoe, attack and table.

They generally considers two types of shoes.

Hard

Footwear with hull in plastics endowed with metallic levers of closing (from 3 to 5) with stuffed and removable inside scarpetta. remembers the ski boot, but is generally built with soft plasticises; the superior part (gambalotto) often more piece of furniture is sideways made and frontally from you untie. is generally used with the attacks hard on alpine tables.

Soft

Footwear with composite upper of skin-fabric-plastics, with rubber sole and system of drawstrings closing, straps o hooks. The stuffed inside scarpetta is generally removable. It allows greater mobility of the articulations and it is used with attacks soft on tables freestyle.
